In the badlands of Norfolk County, ON, Connor Sheppard and Lukas Jablonski are a band that plays what can only be described as a coping mechanism or an inside joke that has overstayed its welcome but has forever changed the lives of both of its conspirators.

They met in high school, a mutual low point, but only started playing after Lukas graduated. Initially covering Wipers and Guided by Voices, two songwriter's two different directions converged, past a shared obsession with Steve Albini and into new territories and a shared obsession with microphones.

They take turns on drums and guitar, both being half-decent at both. Their live shows are often confusing, as they look at each other intensely, trying to provoke the other. It's interesting, you should see it sometime.

Lukas, with mixed feelings, goes to the University of Guelph, and they have played shows there and in Norfolk County. They have released everything except their best work, Messlure Radio: 0th Anniversary Collectorz Edition, available where music can be procured on World Milk Day 2025 (June 1st).
